

Jesse M. Heines

From: Jesse M. Heines [heines@cs.uml.edu]
Sent: Wednesday, October 31, 2007 3:05 PM
To: 'msgs@cs.uml.edu'
Subject: Message #6 to Undergraduate CS Majors on Advising for the Spring 2008 Semester

Students:

This message probably does not apply to those of you who read your CS e-mail and are therefore viewing the original of this message. However, I ask that you print it and pass it on to your friends who do not read their CS e-mail and are therefore missing important information.

FORWARDING YOUR CS E-MAIL TO YOUR YAHOO OR GMAIL OR HOTMAIL OR ANY OTHER ACCOUNT

If you would rather read your e-mail in an account other than your @cs.uml.edu one, you can auto-forward all incoming e-mail to any other e-mail address by doing the following.

1. create a file in your CS root directory named .forward
2. the content of that file should be:

```
\your-CS-username, full-e-mail-address-to-forward-to
```

-  the \your-CS-username part tells the mail server to leave a copy of the e-mail in your CS account
-  note that the two parts are separated by a comma
-  make sure that the forwarded-to e-mail address is correct or your e-mail could go into an infinite loop!
-  you absolutely must test your setup by sending an e-mail message to yourself and making sure that it goes where you expect it to

3. example:

```
~ > cat > .forward
\heines, heinesj@comcast.net
^D (this is Ctrl-D)
~ >
```

Jesse